Cryptocurrency in the Future

A presentation is a method of communicating information, ideas, or proposals to an audience in a structured and engaging manner. It typically involves a speaker delivering content using verbal and visual elements, such as slides, images, or demonstrations. Presentations serve various purposes, including informing, persuading, instructing, or inspiring the audience. Effective presentations require careful planning, clear organization of content, and consideration of the audience's needs and interests to ensure maximum impact and understanding.

DeFi and Its Transformative potential

What is Defi (Decentralized Finance)

DeFi is a system of financial services—like lending, borrowing, and trading—built on blockchain technology, without traditional banks. It uses smart contracts on platforms like Ethereum to let users interact directly through decentralized apps (dApps).

- Key Benefits:
- No middlemen
- Open to anyone with internet access
- Fast, transparent, and global

DeFi aims to create a more open and user-controlled financial system.
